

Local Community Resources

Besides what is offered through Morgantown Hospice there are a number of resources that are available in our community. You will find a listing of Community Service Numbers in the front section of your phone book. We also have a new 211 community information system in West Virginia. Just like for emergencies you dial 911, or for directory assistance, you dial 411 on your phone, you can dial 211 on your phone and get connected with someone 24 hours per day to get information about various services you may need. There is also a web site, www.wv211.org, where you can find information on your computer.

Remember to rely on your spiritual and religious community for faith-based concerns and resources.

Valley Health Care has a 24 hour emergency hotline for crisis intervention such as suicide or mental health issues. That number is 1-800-232-0020.

A list of national organizations for grief support is provided along with information about what each offers. The web site addresses are included since so many people rely on the Internet for information.
